

Saar's Future Will Be Determined By Ballots At Election on Sunday

Nazis and Communists, Bitter Opponents in Plebiscite, Will Face Supreme Test in Determining What Will Happen.

NAZIS FAVORED

Believe People Will Vote for Reunion with German Nation, Nazis Hope for 90 Per Cent.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.) Saarbrücken, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 12.—Nazis and Communists, bitter irreconcilables, looked forward today to a supreme test in tomorrow's Saar plebiscite.

For Reichsführer Adolf Hitler and his followers, the balloting will represent the first trial of their policies in a free election.

Communists and Socialists view the vote as a last stand against the European dictatorships which one after another have crushed their power.

Leaders of the (Nazi) German front express hope the plurality in favor of the Saar's reunion with the Fatherland will reach 90 per cent. Such a victory, they believe, would strikingly confirm the overwhelming endorsement accorded Hitler in the Nazi-controlled election last August.

The vigorous efforts made by the German front to realize its hopes are interpreted here as an indication of the Brown Shirts' determination to show the world that elections in Germany are not influenced by force.

A plurality of only 65 or 70 per cent, some circles believe, would indicate strong anti-Nazi sentiment in the territory, for many Saarlanders who are not sympathetic with the Hitler regime are expected to vote for reunion with Germany as a patriotic duty.

Routed from Germany, Austria and Italy by hostile dictatorships, Communists and Socialists are staking their hopes on maintenance of the status quo—continued administration of the territory by the League of Nations.

France now considered few any chance of victory for the third proposal, annexation to France.

Failing to achieve an out-and-out victory for the status quo, anti-Nazi factions are hopeful of rolling up so impressive a minority vote that the League of Nations may be prompted to partition the territory, setting up an internationalized area as a sanctuary for the dissenters.

Such an arrangement lies within the League's power, since the plebiscite, under the Treaty of Versailles, is merely to show the natives' preferences.

Despite the intense emotional pitch to which the bitter campaigning of the past few weeks has aroused the Saarlanders, election officials hope that voting will be conducted without major disturbances.

Minor incidents, it is expected, are almost certain to be produced by the stringent voting rules.

The officials have absolute authority to deny the right to vote to anyone who discloses his intentions and to order the arrest of any voter who afterwards reveals what choice he favored.

As a precaution against widespread disaffection of its supporters, the German front has imposed the strictest discipline, urging every German sympathizer to cast his ballot in silence.

Police Keep Order
The international police will be charged with maintaining order at the polls, with the patrol force of foreign troops in the background as a moral influence.

Voters from abroad, 55,000 of whom are expected to swell the territory's population by tomorrow night, continued to pour across the border. For the most part they were received in silence in conformity with the German front's warning against demonstrations which might provoke retaliatory measures by the plebiscite commission.

The plebiscite commission modified its iron-clad telephone blockade restrictions and announced it would permit limited communication with the outside world while the results of the balloting are being broadcast Tuesday.

Previously, the commission said that no telephone calls whatever would be allowed until after the official broadcast had ended.

Not For Loyals
Toronto, Jan. 12 (AP)—Loyals of London, which underwrites everything from ocean liners to the weather, has refused to insure the Dönitz plebiscite. It was reported here today.

The guardians of the famous infants were reported to have approached Loyals after turning down offers of several Canadian and United States companies to insure them for $100 each, the limit allowable under the insurance laws.

Extra Panel of 40 Jurors Drawn for Criminal Trials

County court will convene Monday morning at 10 o'clock at which time the Becker-Empt trial will be resumed. Late Friday afternoon Judge Traver adjourned the court until Monday morning in order to give counsel in the case an opportunity to present law to uphold their contentions of what law applies. Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock criminal work will be taken up.

In order to have sufficient jurors on hand to take up criminal trials an extra panel of 40 jurors was drawn to be present Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This step was taken in view of the fact that the Mancuso murder trial is scheduled for January 21, and both prosecution and defense is entitled to 20 excuses. Following is the extra panel summoned for Monday afternoon.

More Asked For Roads.
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12 (AP)—Comptroller of the $16,000,000 appropriated for highway construction and maintenance last year was "grossly inadequate," the Highway Users' conference today urged Governor Herbert H. Lehman to boost the appropriation to $41,000,000.

Under present plans of the conference the additional appropriation would be made possible through the use of all the money collected from tolls for highway purposes.

San Francisco, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Mackay radio reported today that Amelia Earhart was flying over Santa Cruz, Cal., 75 miles south of here, at 10:49 a. m. today on her flight from Hawaii to Oakland.

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—Rapidly nearing her goal, Amelia Earhart Putnam, first woman to attempt a Transpacific solo flight, sped toward the Oakland Airport today and the man who plotted her dangerous 2,408 mile course estimated she would arrive about 11:13 a. m. (PST) from Honolulu.

Signals from her plane were coming in stronger here and diminishing at Los Angeles, indicating the ship was approaching closer to the coast here.

Climbing upward again into the skies, after descending to only 700 feet above the tossing waves, Miss Earhart soared along at an 8,000 ft. altitude.

Forest Service Plans To Set Four Million Trees in Early Spring

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press) Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Four million trees will be planted next spring, it was announced today, as a start on the forest service's vast shelter-belt designed to sweep from Canada to the Texas Panhandle.

The American Tree Association said 23 of 30 planting areas had been selected tentatively each calling for planting of 120,000 trees in strips five miles long and 10 rods wide. They will be established in the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The forest service has collected sufficient seed of acclimated species to provide about 100,000,000 seedlings for planting in 1936.

Designed to provide windbreaks for cultivated land, the project was endorsed by President Roosevelt and set in motion with an allotment of $1,000,000 in 1934. When completed it will provide a belt of trees planted in the 10-rod wide strips over a 100-mile wide area.

Trees are to be planted in 19 rows with intervals of about six feet. The outside rows will be such trees as choke berry, sumac, and willow; the next rows Russian olive or mulberry. Orange, orange, or apricot; the next rows of green ash, American or Chinese elm, oak, hackberry, Texas walnut, black locust, or pecan; and the center rows of cottonwood, willows and black locust.

Paul H. Roberts, acting director of the project, said in an article in the Forest News Digest, publication of the Tree Association, that plans for 1935 "provide for planting the favorable places first, using past experience and study as a guide; and for the present passing by the unfavorable places."

DETAINED FOR EXAMINATION AFTER HIS TRUCK HIT AUTO
William H. Minard, 43, of Ulster Park, was arrested Friday night by Sergeant Lockhart, after he had run his Chevrolet truck into the rear end of a Nash sedan owned by Arthur Rhodes. The accident happened in front of the post office in Clintonville. The Nash was turned around by the force of the blow and Rhodes received a cut on his right thumb. Minard was taken before Justice William B. Carr in Clintonville, who committed him to the county jail to await an examination today.

Minard, who peddles groceries and fish, admitted it is alleged by the police, when being booked, prior to being locked up for the night, that he had had a couple of small drinks of "Dago" beer.

Reilly Says Defense Will Prove Fisch Wrote Kidnap Ransom Notes

Burly Hauptmann Attorney Says Today He'll Prove Prisoner Free of Extortion as Well as of Murder.

SPENT MONEY EARLY

State Says Accused Kidnap Spent Money Long Before He Met Fisch in August, 1932.

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press) Flemington, N. J., Jan. 12 (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense put its handwriting experts to work on the Lindbergh ransom notes today in an attempt to show they were written by Isador Fisch.

Taking advantage of a week-end recess in Hauptmann's trial for life, the defense authorities also sought flaws in evidence presented by the state that the notes were written by Hauptmann himself.

Edward J. Reilly, urbane chief of defense for Hauptmann in his trial for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh infant, said:

"We will prove that Fisch not only collected the ransom but also wrote the ransom notes."

Ever since his arrest, the Bronx carpenter has insisted that the $14,500 in ransom money found in his possession was given to him by Fisch, his former business partner who died obscurely in Germany.

"The state produced evidence of extortion against Hauptmann," Reilly said, "but so far there is no evidence of murder."

The burly attorney said the defense expects "to prove Hauptmann innocent of extortion as well as murder. He merely received, unwittingly, some of the ransom money from Isador Fisch."

Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., Hunterdon county prosecutor, said "the state is ready to refute any charge that Fisch had anything to do with this case. We are prepared to break down completely Hauptmann's alibi involving Fisch as the man from whom he obtained the ransom money."

State Discounts Fisch.
State's attorneys, discounting the injection of Fisch to the fore of the case, said handwriting authorities have pronounced his script dissimilar to that of the ransom mislives.

Hauck asserted witnesses could be produced to show Hauptmann was spending the ransom money before he met Fisch. Federal Agent Frank Wilson testified yesterday that the first bill turned up five or six days after the ransom was paid April 2, 1932, and Hauck said the state could prove that Hauptmann and Fisch did not become acquainted until August of that year.

Another Bill Found
After agent Wilson testified that he had no knowledge of any ransom money being located since Hauptmann's arrest, another of the Lindbergh bills was located in Gettysburg, Pa.

It was paid by Mervin E. Tipton, proprietor of a shoe repair shop, to his landlord, and after both men noticed it was drawn on the Hunterdon County National Bank, it was found that the serial number, A001095, tallied with that of one of the ransom notes.

Tipton was unable to shed any light on the source of the $10 bill, and the Department of justice was notified.

While defense experts pored over the ransom notes and samples of Hauptmann's hand in the writing exhibits, under the watchful eye of a member of the prosecution at Trenton, the old Hunterdon county court scene of the trial—was virtually empty.

Shiriff John H. Curtis ruled that his men had enough to do during the week, handling the capacity crowds, without showing sightseers about during the recess. Still the visitors came, to see the town and perhaps the eight men and four women of the jury, out for a constitutional or going for a bus ride.

Albert S. Osborn, the veteran kingpin in the state's array of experts, opened the handwriting case against Hauptmann, naming him the ransom note writer as the state started yesterday to develop this line of evidence.

Osborn Made a Hit
Former Judge George K. Large, a special assistant attorney general on the prosecution staff, said, "Osborn laid the foundation for his conclusions and demonstrated they were correct. The jury was greatly interested."

"He made an excellent, convincing and satisfying witness. His comparisons were excellent and he conclusively proved that Hauptmann had written all of the ransom notes and all of the other specimens of writing."

Frederick A. Pope, a member of the defense counsel, said of Osborn's testimony: "It was a wonderful, long lecture on something we know nothing about, consisting of a lot of chalk marks and ink marks from some of the letters."

In Osborn's description of the handwriting, some of the down strokes on the 't's' were to the left, pressed for each and that as a result Mr. Empt said the bills were not his.

Heated Argument
There was some heated argument in the case. Roy Lounsberry, attorney for defendant, charged that the action was a "hold-up" and that the defendant had been done his right. In his opening he alleged that the defendant could not even sign his own name.

Mr. Empt said the bills were not his.

Senators Plot Program In Event Gold Case Fails

Belefas Is Awarded $218.99 Against the Modern Home Supply

Plaintiff Claimed He Was Owed Money as Commission for Sale of Electrical Equipment — Appeal From Justice's Court Before Judge Traver.

James A. Belefas, a former Ellenville resident, was awarded a verdict of $218.99 in an action on contract brought in county court against the Kingston Modern Home Supply Co., Inc. Plaintiff claimed the defendant company owed him money as commission for sale of electrical equipment. It was denied and the defendant entered a counter claim asking for a verdict against the plaintiff on the theory that he had overdrawn his drawing allowance. The case was submitted to the jury Friday morning and a verdict was returned late in the afternoon. Elson H. Murray appeared for plaintiff and Daniel Hoffman for defendant. The jurors have been excused until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when criminal cases will be taken up for trial.

Following the Belefas case an appeal from Justice's court was brought to the attention of Judge Traver, Martha Becker of New York city, formerly of Lackawack, this county, seeks to recover damages from Ezra Empt of Lackawack. The case involves several questions with both plaintiff and defendant claiming various sums. Plaintiff alleged that in April 1933 the Empt place at Lackawack was leased for a term of one year. It included a house, store, garage and filling station and the annual rental of $600 was paid in advance under the terms of the lease. Among the things in the lease was one that the owner should keep all plumbing in the place in good order during the term of the lease.

Clause About Plumbing
It is this clause about maintaining plumbing that causes the action to be brought. Plaintiff claims that in the summer boarding season there was a lack of water once but that Mr. Empt corrected that. During the winter of 1933-1934 which was an exceptionally cold one the plaintiff alleges the plumbing froze. First the drain pipes froze and the water ran over the floor of the house one night even though there were fires in the house. Next the water froze but was thawed out by Empt. Finally the cess-pool froze up and then the water pipes froze up because of difficulty at the reservoir which supplied the pipes. As a result of this the plaintiff left the place about the middle of February after it is alleged Mr. Empt refused to have the repairs made. One contention of the plaintiff is that there was no serious objection to the water freezing up but that when Mr. Empt refused to construct an outside toilet when the indoor ones became useless, then they were forced to move.

As a result of the moving out before the lease expired plaintiff seeks to recover $125, the value of the rent for the unused term, also $24.09 for sale of gas, oil and telephone calls which Mr. Empt made and also for a turkey which plaintiff bought for Mr. Empt on Thanksgiving and which was charged to him and never paid for. In addition the Beckers had three boarders who paid $8 a week board. These boarders they claim they lost and claim $120 damages for loss of this revenue because of the conditions which came about at the house. Plaintiff also alleges that the electric light bill was rendered to Mr. Empt and he failed to pay it or notify his tenants of the bill and as a result the company turned off the lights a couple of days before the Beckers left.

The charges of the plaintiff are denied by the defendant who alleges that the plaintiffs failed to keep proper fires in the house to prevent the plumbing freezing. He charges that when the first freeze-up took place he thawed out the pipes and told them that another freeze would happen unless fires were kept burning all night. He even kept burning supply wood fires and kept the water pipes from freezing if they could not. The first claim was refused and not. This last freeze came. Mr. Empt denies the plaintiffs have anything coming to them because of failure of the plumbing to operate and claims that this condition was brought about by their own negligence after he had warned them to keep the fire going. He seeks to recover $25 for electric light bills which he paid because they were unable to pay the bills and also for six loads of wood at $3 a load. Plaintiff admits there were three loads delivered but that the price was but $2.50 a load. In addition Mr. Empt claims that the plaintiffs damaged his property to the extent of $125 and asks that he be reimbursed to that extent for the damage done when they moved from the place in February.

Revised Argument
There was some heated argument in the case. Roy Lounsberry, attorney for defendant, charged that the action was a "hold-up" and that the defendant had been done his right. In his opening he alleged that the defendant could not even sign his own name.

Mr. Empt said the bills were not his.

POST OFFICE CASE

Senator Norris May Move To Take Politics Out of the Postal Service.

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Just in case the supreme court should rule against the government in the momentous gold clause case, some senators are discussing legislative plans to avoid what one leading advocate of a cheaper dollar called the "ruination of everything."

"There has been discussion and undoubtedly a program will be ready," said Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), but he quickly added:

"We have every confidence the supreme court will sustain the administration and the congress. An adverse decision would have such a widespread effect it would ruin everything."

Thomas said one idea under tentative discussion, of which he was not the author, would provide for increasing the membership of the supreme court by two or three to make more certain the recovery program would "get a new deal."

Upon the impending decision hang the fate of the New Deal monetary program and the question whether there shall be an increase of some $60,000,000,000 in private and public debts. After Chief Justice Hughes had asked further questions about the government's rights in relation to contracts, the court heard final arguments yesterday in the last

Seal Sale Report And Annual Meeting of the TB Committee

Seal Sale Report and Annual Meeting of TB Committee

On Thursday evening, the annual meeting of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, including the report on the Christmas Seal Sale for 1934, was held at the home of the secretary, Dr. Mary Gage-Day. Judge Joseph M. Fowler, president of the committee, presided.

Annual reports were given by the secretary and treasurer. The report of the secretary, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, was as follows: The outstanding work of the committee the past year was securing the approval of the State Board of Health to the renovation of the old tuberculosis hospital, and making it into a modern well-equipped children's camp.

In this renovation work, Dr. Mark O'Meara, chairman of the committee, gave much attention. Miss Murphy, the nurse, also visited the camp often; and James F. Loughran gave the entire work his personal supervision and when the camp was finished and ready for very full and complete play apparatus for which this committee as well as all the children who play there thank them. The new Camp Happyland cared for 90 children the past summer, which is 15 more than had been in camp any previous summer. While the present camp is complete and modern as far as it goes, it does not go far enough. A large recreation hall is needed, where the children can play rainy days and should be large enough for 15 or 20 cots, so that a greater number of the under-nourished children of this county can have the benefit of the fresh air, good food and health teaching in Camp Happyland.

A start has been made toward such a hall. The Public Health Committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs gave $25 and the Presbyterian Church of Highland came to camp with their birthday offering, which added to the fund makes $62 toward it and it is believed that other donations will be added. So it is hoped that the work can be started early in the spring, so that it will be ready for use next summer. Additional sums just received brings the amount up to $88.03. For it is inevitable that with the continued hard times, there are going to be more of the children of the county undernourished and they will need the life and teaching of the camp to help them to grow up into useful healthy citizens. It is a great work for this committee to give the needy children of the city and county this chance. Respectfully submitted,

MARY GAGE-DAY, Secretary.
It should be noted that the date of the annual meetings was changed last summer from August to January and for this reason, the report of the treasurer, Harry S. Ensign, like that of the tuberculosis visiting nurse covers a period of a year and a half, lacking a few weeks. Here is the report of Treasurer Ensign for Camp Happyland, which is the objective of Christmas Seal Sales these days:

Report of Nurse.
Then came the report of Miss Katherine Murphy, the tuberculosis nurse whose work and salary is financed also by the tuberculosis committee. It was the outspoken sense of those present—Judge Fowler, Dr. Harry S. Ensign, Mrs. Clara N. Reed, Sam Bernstein, Dr. Charles E. Parsons, Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Dr. Mark O'Meara and Charles Snyder—that Miss Murphy had been doing the work of two or three capable nurses instead of one and later on during the meeting the committee voted to give Miss Murphy the same vacation period as accredited state nurses, one month in the year. Miss Murphy's report was accepted with thanks and full appreciation.

Diagnostic clinics were held by the State Department of Health in May, 1934, in Kingston, Saugerties and Highland with a total of 264 patients examined. At the Ulster County Hospital the county nurse assisted at 117 clinics. Several of these clinics were held in the evening to accommodate folks who were unable to come on clinic days. In these clinics 1580 patients were examined, 757 X-rayed and 1123 fluoroscoped. Of the accomplishments in the county tuberculosis work the outpatient clinic must be considered the greatest. It is through this part of the programme that the most number of cases of tuberculosis are discovered.

The clinic is not limited to the reception, diagnosis and placement of patients but also used in the development of extensive measures of prevention particularly among children who have been in contact with tuberculosis. During the year a total of 558 contacts were examined, 165 at the state clinics and 393 at the county hospital clinic.

The county nurse is responsible not only for the case-finding and follow-up in the clinics but the organization of an educational program. During the year 1934 an exceedingly large and valuable amount of attention has been given to the work in the schools. During March of this year (Early Diagnosis Month) year committee cooperating with our state and national tuberculosis association purchased leaflets, posters, which were distributed and through newspaper publicity meetings, etc., so spread the gospel of better health over the county.

The educational work done through the tuberculosis test as well as its practical value is beyond any measure. In this organization 34 meetings were attended by the county nurse. Many of these meetings were organized for the purpose of acquainting folks with the tuberculosis programme. Others were by invitation of a most interested group of Parent-Teacher, Home Bureau and civic clubs. Dr. Fred Holcomb addressed many of these gatherings. Dr. George Weber some and Dr. The hospital unit and the committee are greatly indebted to James F. Loughran of our committee who has travelled many days and nights into the county to show the film "The Story of My Life" by TB, which the Ulster County Committee purchased as well as the Camp Happyland pictures which Mr. Loughran and Dr. Parsons took of the children during the past summer.

In the work of tuberculosis testing the county nurse assisted Dr. Weber in the high schools with 1262 pupils and in the grade schools with 2536 children during and up to June, 1934. To date the schools of Ellenville, Kingston, Saugerties, Ulster, high school of Marlborough and the township schools of New Paltz, Rosendale, Ulster, Shandaken, Shawangunk, Gardiner, Esopus, Rochester and a part of Katonah have been completed. The cooperation of health officers, physicians, school authorities, nurses and county officials has been most gratifying and helpful. When a child is found positive to the tuberculin test given in the school, they with their parents and all adult members of the family are asked to come to the hospital clinic, are fluoroscoped or X-rayed and are given information about tuberculosis. This actual work and education given is bound to show in the next few years a more intelligent conception of the disease with a drop in the high mortality rate which Ulster county has shown for many years.

However, the program is not 100% satisfactory especially in the outlying districts. People and it difficult in many instances to get into the clinics at the hospital and therefore lose out on the most important part of the test, the case finding. This problem could be entirely solved if Ulster county had a portable X-ray which could be taken to the immediate locality where these people live and so make this valuable work entirely complete. During 1934 the nurse made 259 school visits in the interest of this work.

Home visits made for supervision of positive cases and contacts numbered 796. 332 interview visits were made in behalf of patients and work. It is my pleasure to express to this committee, to Dr. Holcomb, superintendent, and the staff of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital with the board of managers and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the county hospital my appreciation for their ever readiness to cooperate at all times and help in the tuberculosis field work and again may I extend to the workers in the county thanks for the help they have given in the tuberculin test and case finding programme carried on by the county unit during 1933 and 1934.

Respectfully submitted, KATHERINE MURPHY, Ulster Co. Tuberculosis Nurse.

A group of seven of the younger girls, the Misses Mary Rose Dempsey, Jeanne Marie De La Vergne, Marion Gage, Mary Louise Osholm, Betty Ruzzo, Frances Lown and June Van Wagenen presented the charming little French playlet, "Les tous Petits Anges." Their six of the smaller boys dressed in Elton suits recited "There is Room in My Heart." They were Bruce Miller, Bobby Weber, Thomas Coughlin, John Gannon, John Cordis, Jr., and David Bundy. Two more carols were sung at this time "Lo, in a manger" and "Jesus, Cher Nour." The latter being given by the students of the fifth and sixth grades. A piano selection for six hands given by David Lundy, Jeanne Marie De La Vergne and Annella Altamari concluded the first part of the program. The climax of the afternoon came with the presentation of the play "The Mystery of the Star," adapted from the universally loved story "Ben Hur." It was arranged in three acts, the first one showing the three wise men in the desert, the second being laid before the gates of Jerusalem and the last scene taking place in the palace of King Herod. As fine as the story was in itself and as carefully as it was interpreted by the young actresses, still the full conviction which the play carried with it, could not have been secured without the very skillfully arranged settings. The desert scene with its warring palms and camels loaded for their journey was complete in every detail, as was also the scene in Herod's palace. Here dark curtains heavy with gold embroidery, oriental dancing, raga, marble pedestals, divans and palms all combined to give a skillful imitation of the throne room of a powerful oriental ruler. The costumes were also worked out with particular feeling for the color picture which they would make. The prologue to the play was given by Miss Dorothy Jones while piano selections filled the intervals between the acts. Miss Peggy Schilling playing "A Curious Story" and the Misses Pauline Kellman and Dorothy Jones interpreting Grieg's "Norwegian Bridal Procession." The singing of the carol "How Far is it to Jerusalem" and "Entre le Bon et le Malin" with the tableaux of angels

Hauptmann's Fate May Hinge On Experts' Decision On Ransom Notes

The fate of Bruno Richard Hauptmann is seen by close observers of his trial at Flemington, N. J., for the murder of the Lindbergh baby as likely to rest with battery of experts summoned by both the prosecution and the defense to pass on the handwriting in the ransom notes received by J. F. "Jafie" Condon and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Above are five of the notes received during the early stages of the trial, as follows: (1) the note found at crib (2) notification to Col. Lindbergh of $70,000 ransom figure (3) to Condon telling him to act as go-between (4) to Col. Lindbergh specifying dimensions of ransom money box and (5) the note delivered by John Perrone. The Lindbergh home at Hopewell is shown in the background. (Associated Press Photo)

Prosecution in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann is expected to call some ten handwriting experts and Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel promises to summon more than that number to the witness stand to pass on the ransom notes in the Lindbergh kidnapping case and the handwriting of the defendant. If the notes are determined to be in Hauptmann's hand, the German carpenter's fate is considered sealed. Above are the later notes in the ransom negotiations, as follows: (6) note found at trunk under stand in Woodlawn cemetery (7) the one sent to Condon with sleeping suit (8) to Condon saying "It is not necessary to furnish code" (9) "Have the money ready" (10) directing Condon to greenhouse at St. Raymond's cemetery and (11) "Boy in Road Nellie." The St. Raymond's cemetery, where the ransom was paid, is shown in background. (Associated Press Photo)

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

So Sing Low.
Philadelphia—Dominoes may be a simple game to some, but not to the Chinese, Judge Norman T. Boose, the jury, witnesses and the district attorney of upper Darby decided. They "learned," or rather listened to two Chinese, Albert Young and Charlie York, explaining the hundreds of rules concerning "tin gow," the Chinese domino game, as their trial on charges of gambling.

Finally the judge decided there wasn't any evidence the men had gambled and ordered their acquittal, admitting he still did not understand the rules.

Their Prerogative.
Bloomington, Pa.—Maybe it's woman's long recognized right to change her mind, or maybe it's something else again.

At any rate, during the last year five unused marriage licenses were returned to the clerk of the Columbia county courts. The number is the largest on record.

Honesty Best Policy.
Chicago—Because someone decided that honesty was the best policy—after debating the idea for two years—Hazel F. Wald, a hotel stenographer, had her $1,000 diamond ring back today.

Two years ago the ring was stolen. Yesterday a young woman hurried into the hotel, handed a bell boy a tiny box with instructions to give it to Mrs. Wald, and hurried out again. In the box was the ring.

Membership Drive.
Huntsville, Ont.—There's been a big increase in the membership of the Huntsville Ski Club.

The boys have sent honorary memberships to the Dionne quintuplets, together with club pins.

The club has visions of a nifty ski team some time in the far distant future.

Beethoven, Deaf, Composed
Beethoven composed music after he became deaf. A letter written in 1800, when he was not yet thirty, begs that his deafness be kept "a profound secret." He was completely deaf a few years later, but he continued to write music until November, 1820, five months before his death.

DR. DEEVER TO SPEAK AT THE NEWBURGH Y. M. C. A.

Dr. G. G. Deever, head of the department of physical education of New York University, will be the guest speaker at the Newburgh Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening of this week when the newly organized "Phalanx Club" of the New York State Triangles Council will stage their first rally. A club similar to that in Newburgh, is in the process of organization here.

Dr. Deever, formerly director of physical education in the "Y's" of Egypt, and for several years instructor at the Chicago "Y" College, is a graduate of Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, and is a foremost authority on physical education. Together with his staff, he has devised various tests which show the physical capacity of the body, and if carried to sufficient degree can be used to separate a large crowd of candidates into their respective positions upon teams. Several of the local young men witnessed his demonstration at the Albany Young Men's Congress, and were highly interested in his procedure. Dr. Deever will bring to Newburgh several of his instruments and demonstrate their usage.

Any young man desiring to attend the Newburgh meeting with the local group may register at the local "Y" with Mr. Van Deusen, on or before Monday. No registrations will be made after Monday, as the number then registered will be sent to Newburgh. A small charge for supper will be asked.

The New-Value Dodge Sedan $735*

HERE IT IS - THE CAR THAT MADE 175 EXPERTS Guess Wrong!

"I KNOW GOOD LOOKS when I see them," says Russell Patterson, famous writer and illustrator, "so it's no wonder that I guessed the price of the new 1935 Dodge too high."

"BIZZLED BY BEAUTY," says Miss Dorris Hobbs, buyer and value expert, "I guessed the new 1935 Dodge to be worth hundreds of dollars above its actual price."

"I GUESSED this new 1935 Dodge to be priced much higher than it actually is," says Homer H. Bailey, former buyer for a mail order store. "Even though I'm wrong, I still think the car is worth it."

"THIS NEW 1935 DODGE looks like a $1,000 model," says Earl F. Lunder, value expert. "When I was surprised to find it came so much lower, I was wondering if the word 'new' was it came to guessing the price."

So Much Luxury, Style and Value in the New 1935 DODGE, Experts Overguessed its Price... Couldn't Believe It Would Sell for So Little.

175 experts—authorities in style, value, engineering—guessed too high when asked to estimate the price of the New-Value Dodge for 1935.

But no wonder they guessed wrong! Never before has any car so low-priced been so smartly designed, so sturdily built, so luxurious... with 95 basic advancements for new comfort, new economy, new high speed with safety.

And "Synchromatic Control," which makes driving unbelievably easy and effortless... the new "Airslide Ride," which gives Dodge a steadiness, smoothness and roadability never before ever approached by other cars.

The New-Value Dodge is powered with the Dodge "Red Ram" engine. It's silky smooth, with traditional Dodge dependability. Develops 85 miles an hour and up! Built to last, to save money, no matter how fast you drive. A saving of 15¢ to 20¢ on every dollar you spend for gas is now possible—with even more astonishing oil economy!

Compare delivered prices of this 1935 Dodge against other cars! You'll be surprised to learn how low they are. Only the genius of a manufacturing organization like Dodge—with 20 years' experience building fine motor cars—could create such outstanding dollar-for-dollar value.

And two more in addition
To help hold up her chassis and
Her rear end and transmission.

The state funeral directors ought to erect a monument to the automobile. It is certainly their best friend.

Chauffeur—Why, ma'am, the axle is sprung, the mud guards bent, and your husband's neck is broken.
Woman (a bit interested)—And how about those brand new lamps?

Life is just like this: When you go out driving on Sunday afternoon you pass a filling station every 200 feet until you run out of gas and then you find there isn't one within three miles.

A beautiful car was parked out in front of one of the moving picture studios in Hollywood. An envious crowd stood around admiring it.

One spectator—I wonder who owns
it.
Actor (in superior tone as he poured himself into the cushions behind the wheel)—It is mine. It is my car. It belongs to me.

Stranger—Well, I am from the finance company, it won't be long now.

One thought on the curb saves two

A list of automobile deaths and injuries reveals that the AAA made one big mistake last spring. Instead of killing off those 6,000,000 little pigs, it would have been more profitable to have cleaned up about 600,000 road hogs.

At the Filling Station
This one comes for water,
This one comes for air,
This one wants directions—
I'm no millionaire.

All the local idlers
Decorate my stools;
All the local grafters
Utilize my tools.

That one wants the rest room,
This one wants a stamp,
That one seeks a pleasant
Spot where he can camp.

Many cars go speeding
O'er the road like glass—
Maybe some day some one
Will drive in for gas!

Man—That's the second time today
I've seen that man following that woman in another car, yelling at her all the time.

Friend—Yes, that's Mr. Johnson.
He is teaching his wife to drive, but he is not taking any risks himself.

The mark of a first-rate man is sufficient courage to overcome the shyness that blocks self-expression.

Young Housewife (to peddler)—
No. Thank you, there is not a thing in the world we want.
Peddler—Very good, madam.
Shall I call again when the honeymoon is over?

History repeats itself. . . . When you least expect it.

Having need of some small change to buy a stamp the mistress of the Mistress: Bessie, have you any coppers down there?

Bessie—Yes'm—two, but they're my cousins, please m'm.

A nickel isn't supposed to be as good as a dollar, but it goes to church

GAS BUGGIES—The False Alarm.

HOMESpun YARN

A vegetable baked in its skin retains most of its food value, says the New York state college of home economics.

The earliest picture-book on record is said to be the "Pictured World of John Amos Comenius," issued in 1657.

A serving of food for a young child may be from two to eight lev-tivity and the age of the child.

Stain removers belong to three main classes, states the New York state college of home economics: ab-sorbents such as blotting paper, tulle's earth and cornmeal for fresh stains; solvents such as carbon tetrachloride for grease and other stains;

and bleaches such as javelle water.

Brown rice is unpolished as it

Starch or flour is used in the manufacture of baking powder to take thus prevent loss of gas before the 40 to 50 per cent, and with the air

The World

Oldsmobile today announced its 1935 cars—a new six and a new straight eight, both bigger and roomier. The new car is being displayed in the Stuyvesant Garage showrooms on Clinton avenue, local distributors. Both cars will retain all the engineering advances of 1934 and will add to them important new developments of the past 12 months.

The principal improvements announced are:

The solid steel "turret top" body by Fisher, having as an integral part a roof stamped from a solid sheet of seamless steel. The body has steel protection for the passengers on all sides, top and bottom. A streamline design in which the entire car slopes gracefully from the new radiator, back over the slanting windshield, rounded top and to the rear bumper in one sweeping line, accentuated by the single piece streamline fenders.

An X-type frame, 40 per cent stronger and more rigid than those of previous models. A boxed-in section has been added at the rear of the frame, the holes in the X-member eliminated as far as possible, and two fore and aft straddle bars are used over the gas tank as compared to the single bar of 1934.

A complete system of sound-proofing of chassis, engine and body.

Roomier interiors with ample head and leg space, widened seats and smart new fittings.

Huge luggage compartments. Re-distribution of weight to permit all passengers to ride between the axles, thus adding to comfort. This is done by moving the motor and the seats about five inches forward from the 1934 position.

Longer wheelbase on both cars. Increased power achieved largely through the use of an entirely new design cylinder head which gives a higher compression ratio and still permits the use of standard fuel.

More economical operation because of improvements in the manifold system and carburetor. Proving grounds tests of the six have registered 18 miles to the gallon of gas at 50 miles an hour.

Retained for 1935 will be all the well known Oldsmobile features of 1934. Principal among them are:

Super-hydraulic self-energizing brakes with braking area increased by 14 per cent and longer life for the lining assured. The self-energizing feature employs the momentum of the car to increase the stopping power.

Knee-action wheels of the coil spring type used on the higher priced cars. With this construction, employed and proved successful by Oldsmobile in 1934, the front wheels move up and down independently of each other, mounted on the chassis by strong upper and lower control arms. Thus road shocks and jolts which would otherwise be transmitted to the car and passengers are "soaked up" by the big coil springs. The coil spring in this construction is called upon to serve no structural function or to carry any of the driving load. Its sole purpose is to cushion the ride. The effect of this knee-action is described as a "sliding ride."

Other important features retained are: Fisher no-draft ventilation, ride stabilizer, central-control steering.

In announcing the many improvements in the 1935 Oldsmobile, J. L. McNeen, president of Oldsmobile, said:

"It is our belief that the purchaser of a new car is entitled to all that is new and better—all the important features that will make that car more desirable to drive and own. It is a basic Oldsmobile policy to give the public as soon as possible all the new things of proved value. We have therefore not only kept the improvements of 1934 but have added new safety, new beauty and new economy by the introduction on the new Oldsmobiles of the latest engineering developments."

"And even with these new improvements, Oldsmobile will remain in the low price field with the new six and continue in the lower medium price range with the new Straight Eight."

Savings Deposits and Depositors Increase

Reversing a trend characteristic of the period since 1930, savings banks deposits throughout the state increased over $13,000,000 during the last quarter of 1934. It was announced today by the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York. The number of depositors increased by over 30,000.

Total deposits in the 137 savings banks on January 1 were $5,154,357,083—a gain of $90,000,000 for the year. During the year the number of depositors increased by 150,000 to a total of 5,896,276, the largest number on record.

Compared with the last quarter of 1933, when withdrawals exceeded deposits by over $53,000,000, the

MOONEY'S FATE RESTS FINALLY WITH SUPREME COURT

The fate of Tom Mooney, many times debated by governors of California and courts, finally rests with the Supreme Court of the United States which may review his case. Mooney is shown center as he looks today and, at left, as he was when he was convicted in 1917 in the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing. Chief Justice Hughes (right) heads the high court which will pass on his fate, with the court building shown, right. (Associated Press Photo)

1934 report is exceedingly encouraging. Henry R. Kinsey, president of the association and president of the Williamsburgh Savings Bank, Brooklyn, said in announcing the figures. "The gain in the number of depositors was anticipated, since there has been an increase during the last quarter every year since the association's records were started."

"The depositors total of nearly 5,900,000 does not include the thousands of Christmas club accounts and accounts of school children which fluctuate but which if added, would show that one-half the population of New York State has part, if not all, of its funds in savings banks. There has never been a group of financial institutions anywhere which has won the confidence of so large a proportion of the public. This confidence was rewarded with $134,000,000 which was distributed last year to our depositors as dividends."

"The gain of $13,000,000 in deposits registered last quarter is about one-half the normal gain for the period, if we consider the average gain for 1925, '26 and '27 as 'normal.' The average for those years is slightly over $25,000,000."

Midseason Fashions Introduce Smart New Fabrics in Deep and Bright Monotone Colors

Look through any important collection of midwinter fashions today and you will be impressed not so much by their new detail as by the exciting variety of their fabrics. The simplicity of this season's mode has given manufacturers of materials an opportunity to show how smart they can be, with the result that both silks and wools are blossoming out in a profusion of weaves which transform the least pretentious of frocks into gala gowns for every occasion.

You may not be able to recognize your favorite styles in their latest editions—the shirtwaist frock that rustles in taffeta, the tunic in crinkly crepon, or the coat-frock in lacy homespun or rustic silk. Stripes and plaids in gay colors, wool crepes touched up with lace dyed to match, soft, supple kahana and fine dressweight tweeds present fresh ideas to glorify the simple straight-line dresses so indispensable to the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. Prints are glorifying the two-piece frock and the afternoon ensemble. Even the new accessories give proof that the fabric's the thing, this season.

Colors in Woolsens

The two-tone and frosty effects so important earlier in the season, have made way for monotone woolsens in a host of distinctive new shades that contrast well with a dark winter coat. Weaves are flatter, thinner, with the look of spring. This does not mean that surface interest is a thing of the past, but for the moment it is subordinated to color. Wool crepes, homespuns, fine cashmere types and wools that give a rough linen effect are highlighted in raspberry, mulberry, wine, mossy greens, navy and medium shades of blue, as well as in browns that pale to beige, and slaty tones of gray. Black, of course, remains preeminent, always with touches of white or the even newer pink.

These are the woolsens smart women are choosing for simple daytime frocks, such as No. 1534-B, sketched on this page. Their supple textures adapt them both to dresses requiring crisp tailoring and to those with softer details, such as draped collars or full sleeves. No. 1534-B, by the way, is a particularly good example of a style which will be as chic for early spring as it is at this moment, since its wrap-around lines are excellent without a coat, and the short sleeves are indicative of a brand new season.

The younger set, eager to find ways to keep the shirtwaist frock in the limelight for classroom or campus wear, is endorsing the fashion of pastel or neutral wools for this practical type. Lime green, pale gold, rosy reds that verge on coral, and misty blues are peeping from beneath swaggy fur coats. When zero days are over, these will team up with slim tweed reefers in harmonizing shades to form lively spring ensembles. No. 1535-B, with its saddle shoulders and pleated back, will serve nicely in this connection. Or, for the more mature figure, No. 1536-B.

For the deep greens, wines and browns that form the backbone of the midwinter wardrobe, boucle woolsens with very fine curled and looped threads are finding favor in simple little suit dresses with brief fitted jackets. One particularly effective model of this variety, seen at a recent style showing, features a cut-away jacket of the Regency period, a side-buttoned skirt, slightly belted, and a blouse of printed woolen with sleeves extending below the short ones of the jacket to look like deep cuffs.

Printed woolsens with tiny geometric patterns or chaille-type florals on dark backgrounds are appearing in youthful shirtwaist frocks, a gay complement to a plain-color jacket.

No story of woolsens is complete without mention of plaids and stripes. If anything, they are more popular than ever. Plaids can't be too gay or too bright. Stripes have a tendency to wider spacing and to diagonals, but these are no set rules, for too many smart narrow and vertical patterns are cropping up to break them. Embroidered stripes on wool are a high fashion, but a tremendously important one.

For resort wear, the highlighted woolsens are: The white novelty coatings: brown and white, and black, gray and white; plaids; companion weaves for ensembles, some of which feature three distinct patterns, blended in coloring, for skirt, blouse and jacket; mossy woolsens for frocks, in creamy beige, pastel blues, coral and wheat yellow.

Silks for Daytime

If wools are flatter, silks make no such pretense, showing much interest in surface working. You've heard "matelasse" all winter, but until you see the new ones, you will have no idea how fascinating these blistered weaves can be. Sometimes, there is only a narrow crinkled stripe, sometimes a tiny geometric pattern. But all have a thick look and a rich feel which adapts them beautifully to simple frocks of distinction.

Side by side with the classic creases in crepon, its wavy, crinkled weave at its best in prints. Whether you choose it in plain or printed version, you'll want this new-old favorite for No. 1528-B, the tunic model sketched on this page. Navy crepon would suit it admirably for afternoon wear. Or you might select a pale blue all-over print on a navy ground for the tunic, reserving plain navy for the skirt.

Taffetas are coming to town in simple frocks without a trace of frill-frill. In plain dark colors, if you prefer, or in a handsome variation, striped with colored wool. Nos. 1535-B and 1536-B are good for either of these. No. 1535-B may be made with puff sleeves—a particularly happy thought for taffeta.

Cravat silks were bound to be smart, what with shirtwaist frocks having such a heyday. The newest are in very dark but strong colors, striped with white and a second color, and topped off with white accessories. A brighter-than-navy blue, for instance, or a heady fuchsia shade, leather brown or raspberry.

Prints are off to an early start. Just now, it's the two-color print, blending two shades of the same color with a little white, and using the darker tone for the ground. A few small bright florals and geometrics have been seen, but newer than these is the small pastel print on dark grounds.

Relief prints, or prints that look "raised" above the surface of the fabric are destined for great things, this season. Printed matelasses and crepons are especially smart, for this reason, and important in spaced patterns. Other prints achieve the same effect by wavy designs or shadow sub-designs.

To let you know that stripes are much in the picture, we have only to tell you that they're even better than polka dots. Raised stripes, diagonal stripes, wide stripes, narrow stripes, wallpaper stripes that border small florals, cravat stripes—these are just a few of the headlines. You'll find them in taffetas, crepes, and yes, even satine, for daytime wear.

We can't say too much about navy for your plain-color silk. If not navy, your favorite shade of blue, for blues are more important than black. If you base your wardrobe on brown, be sure to include oatmeal beige. If gray is your color, this is the year to indulge in every shade from steel to faint bluish dove.

For blouses, choose chalky pastels, as sherbet pink, apricot, and of course, banana. Lipstick red makes a vivid flash of color with navy, and emerald green with black.

Two Piece, Tunic, Shirtwaist and Wrap Around Frocks Figure Largely in Forecast for Spring

1535-B. Youthful Shirtwaist Frocks of Taffeta. Are Important for Spring. The Approved Silhouette Is Assured in This Chic Model Cut in Sizes 12 to 20.

Shirtwaist frocks that button from neck to waist-line make attractive additions to youthful wardrobes. High necks, Peter Pan collars, puffed sleeves pushed up—are among the engaging features combined to capture the spirit of youth in the styles for spring.

Our pattern for this model includes two pairs of sleeves—long ones for sensible wool frocks, and short puffs for frocks of silk and cotton. Both are cut with saddle yoke, notched identically so that they will fit the corresponding pattern pieces.

This pattern is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 (34) requires 4 yards of 39 inch material.

1528-B. Prints For Spring Have a Chic All Their Own in Tunic Fashions. This Pattern Gives a Square Neckline, Smooth Shoulders and a Tunic of Delf and Slender Cut. Sizes 32 to 42.

Every wardrobe should include one tunic frock of printed silk for early spring. More than any other type the svelte version of this style fits the mood of the bright new prints. Our sketch shows a light figured material giving an enchanting interpretation to this simple pattern. Back and sleeves, cut in one, are joined to the front with raglan lines. The tunic skirt is plain, with hem-line pleats at the sides. The pattern consists of seven pieces made to go together quickly, and without complication. The squared neck-line is accented by jeweled clips.

This design is cut in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 34 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material; 1 yard of 36 inch lining for section beneath tunic.

1534-B. Large Women Will Love The Deep Lap Provided in This Wrap Around Dress. The Shaped Collar Vanishes to Nothing at The Waist-line Giving The New Silhouette—Straight Skirt Lines Beneath a Bloused Bodice. Designed in Sizes 36 to 50.

It is not too soon to think in terms of cotton porch frocks and house-dresses. Our pattern for this design is one of the easiest ones possible to find. There are only eight pieces in it, one of which is an alternate sleeve—a long one. The back and front of the dress are cut without waist-line seams. The back extends over the shoulders to form yokes on to which the fronts are gathered.

Make this dress in dotted percale, seersucker, broadcloth, poplin, dimity, or lawn. Tub silks make satisfactory house-dresses, too. And so do pongees. These finer fabrics are regarded favorably by women who can afford them, for they tub beautifully, and can be ironed in half the time required by other fabrics.

This model is cut in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 46 and 50. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material. (In 36 inch material 4 yards.)

1536-B. Things to Note in This Swagger Frock Are The Single-breasted Closing—The Trick Shape of The Collar and The Inverted Pleat All The Way Down The Back. Sizes 32 to 40.

This type of dress looks its best in smart wool, rustic silk linen or cotton suiting. The medium is unimportant, so long as the material is sporty and has weight enough to tailor nicely.

The silhouette shows the slim straightness that our practical clothes will have this year. Neat, trim lines are the rule. The exception creeps into the picture either in loose sleeves, draped necks, or in inverted pleatings. None of the really smart dresses can be said to be tight all over. On the contrary, the bodices, in most cases, blouse over the waist-line, with youthful nonchalance. This model is a smart example of the trend for spring.

This pattern is designed in sizes 32 to 40. Bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 34 requires 2 yards of 34 inch material.

1535-B—A One-piece Dress with a Two-piece Effect.

Feminine softness is achieved in a charming way in this afternoon dress of printed silk. The high neckline is a favorite for spring. Here it is given a drapery treatment with bateau lines, accentuated by buttoned fastenings on both shoulders.

For your first print dress of the season you couldn't do better than choose this pattern. Absence of complicated detail gives the dress an air of chaste simplicity. The beauty of figured materials is lost when it is unnecessarily cut in a way that interferes with the design of the fabric. Hence, the smartest models feature very simple lines.

This model shows the straight silhouette of the season. A pleat, at the right side of the skirt, provides reserve fullness. It also suggests a wrap-around. A deep slenderizing voke tops the bodice. And a seam through the hip-line gives the design the effect of a two-piece dress. The back is made perfectly plain, with darts at the waist to take care of excess fullness. Sleeves are plain three-quarter ones.

Belts are important, this season. The sketch shows a purchased closure chosen to match a color in the print. This may be worn interchangeably with different styles. Sashes, in two bright colors are a favorite fashion. So are tailored belts of the print, stiffened. These close with buckles, and look smart for morning wear.

Printed silks, and synthetic weaves show mat surfaces. Navy, black, pastels and clear white are popular. The designs—floral, geometric, or confetti dots stand out in relief against their crepey backgrounds.

Barbara Bell Pattern 1535-B is designed in sizes 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34 and 46. Size 34 requires about 3 yards of 39 inch material.

Every Barbara Bell Pattern includes an illustrated instruction guide which is easy to follow.

Accessory and Trimming Notes.

Despite insistence on simplicity, fashion has a weakness for the feminine touch—hence the chic of lace in accessories, this season. A famous French designer started it all with crisp little touches of lace dyed to match tailored navy blue frocks, and now lace in the darker colors is the byword for smart little collars, ascot scarfs and blouses.

Royal blue, scarlet, bright yellow and yellowish rose in starched Venetian and alabon lace look very new in Regency collars with sheer woolen frocks. Effective contrasts are scarlet with navy, blitersweet with brown, royal blue with gray, yellow with navy and emerald with brown. Dyed lace to match your frock continues smart.

Wide dark or bright taffeta scarfs that tie in enormous bows under the chin add a piquant touch to a wintry costume. These are also gay and important in stripes and plaids.

For those wide belts to emphasize a slim waist-line, bright colored felt is new on dark sports frocks. We saw a dishing one in sunny yellow with long bow-ends drawn through a buckle in front, and matched with a yellow shirtwaist clip at the throat. Strips of felt in two and three colors are striking when braided together to form a wide or narrow belt.

Grograin ribbon is one of the leading trimmings for printed frocks. Loops of it in the dominant color of the fabric design may be caught at the throat, collar and cuffs, may be banded with it, pocket tops may be touched off with it in cart-ridge pleating.

What's more, you'll find it making the newest looking hats to match. Sophisticated cuff turbans, jaunty off-the-face models, and brimmed sports types are among those featured. Newest of all is the grograin ribbon bonnet, with a brim that shoots out in front to reveal a bandeau of white organdie ruching, and a crown that points upward in back. Grograin is grand for the off-the-face beret, which is the latest combination of two familiar hat silhouettes. The tiny pill-box hat in bright colors with a contrasting nose veil of wide-mesh veiling, as red with navy blue is just the thing with which to face the season.

Designers are kept busy trying to think of new ways to trim the soft, tailored wool frock that closes in front. They've hit upon frogs, twin tassels, tiny ribbon bows which march two by two down the blouse. Little composition clips in odd shapes, as berry clusters, bows, diamonds, and four leaf clovers represent other ingenious details.

Stitching grows more and more important in tailored trimmings. Deep revers take row upon row of it, and collars, belts, cuffs and pockets subscribe to this simple trimming. Saddle stitching, or the big stitching that distinguishes hand-sewn gloves, is often used to accent the highlights of a frock.

Winter Feeding of Adirondack Deer

The Street Singer

On The Radio Day By Day

Albany, Jan. 12.—Plans for the winter feeding of the Adirondack deer herd have been completed and if the weather proves severe enough to warrant it this program will be carried out by the Conservation Department. The work will be done under the immediate direction of the Bureau of Game of that department.

The program as developed by Commissioner Lithgow Osborne calls for the use of the new concentrated food cake which has been developed during the course of experiments with captive deer during the past three years. It was given a practical trial at one point in the Adirondacks last winter and proved successful.

The food cakes were prepared during the summer by workers in the employ of the department under the supervision of Gardiner Bump, Superintendent of the Bureau of Game. The food was put up in 25 pound cakes and over 500 were placed in tin containers. During the past few weeks over 300 of these have been distributed among the game protectors in the Adirondacks deer country and are now being brought by the protectors to points back in the woods. They will be cached near deer yards which, from past experience, are known to have a shortage of suitable food. When and if the weather becomes severe enough to prevent the deer from securing natural food these cakes will be taken from the containers and made available for the animals.

Investigation has shown that under normal conditions one 25 pound cake will last eight deer nearly two weeks. However, if the winter proves to be a mild one and feeding unnecessary the food will remain in good condition until the following winter, as the tin containers are weather proof.

Some of the remaining food cakes are to be distributed to a number of County Federations of Sportsmen's Clubs in the same region for placing by them and the remainder are to be used by the Bureau of Game and will be taken into the Moose River country in the Adirondacks to continue the work which has been done there during the past two years.

It is estimated that as a result of this program about 40 deer yards of varying sizes will be covered and possibly 1,000 deer fed.

This rather pathetic story is vouched for by the principal character of the tale, but because of the nature of the affair and what might happen afterwards no names will be mentioned.

In one of the several shirt factories in this city is a certain department in which are employed about 25 men, four or five of whom are connected with the union recently established, the remainder being independent workers. Employed in this latter group is a man with a wife and five children.

Several years ago this gentleman conducted a business of his own in this city, but because it was small and economic conditions were unfavorable he was forced to close his shop and seek employment at whatever job presented itself.

The shirt factory gave him employment, at a salary somewhat less than he had formerly earned, but the man was glad for an opportunity to work, and was thankful to the company for considering him.

With the activity of unions in the shirt industry here a portion of the workers joined, but this particular man was not in sympathy with the plan and refrained from connecting himself with the organization.

At present, and for some time past, the activity in this department of the shirt business of this factory has been rather slack, it therefore being necessary to lay off a portion of the help for one or two days of the week. The union men were laid off two days each week but the shirt worker with the large family was kept on at steady employment although he was not a member of the union.

Union employees complained he was being favored, and that they should be given. So strong was the demand of this group that the officials of the company heeded the cry and the family man was given several days' leave per week as were all of the others.

Investigation of the family angle in the case of the men connected with the union revealed that one of them is married and his wife is working in a shirt factory. The remainder are single.

Now the man wants to know if the union is acting fairly in this case and if the employers did right to accede to their wishes in giving him part-time employment although he has this large family to support and is willing to work as long as possible to support his wife and children while the union employees are single or so fixed that they are better able to make ends meet financially?

ELLENVILLE TANNERY WAS IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

Just one out of many examples that might be found of what industries that are no more once meant to certain towns and localities is found in a review of the Ellenville Journal issue of January 28, 1887.

Reference is made to figures compiled at that time by Edgar D. Howell, who was and had been a prominent resident of the Ellenville Tanning Co.

Mr. Howell stated that he had held out during the past ten years the sum of $1,468,150. Of this sum there had been paid out for labor alone, exclusive of salaries, $788,473.22. About 200 men were employed, 163 at Ellenville and the remainder at Wawarsing. The workers at the Ellenville tannery had received the larger portion of the amount spent, having received a total of $339,023.54, or an average of about $5,000 a month for each of the merchants and business men of the village during the ten year period.

Shoemakers are always in need regardless of the structure they take at the time.

TROOPERS' SLEIGHRIDE WAS AN INTERESTING AFFAIR

The boys of Troop C are reading with much interest accounts in the local papers of the attempt made by Sergeant Hopkins and Trooper Batters of Ellenville to take a sleighride following the recent snow.

They hitched one of the Sergeant's horses to a cutter that forms part of the equipment of the stable on his Ellenville estate and started off up the Greenfield road. Accounts differ as to whether the Sergeant got aboard the cutter at the start or whether he was walking alongside with Trooper Batters doing the steering. At any event, either through an oversight in properly harnessing up their spirited steed, or because the animal's experience didn't go back to sleighriding days, things began to happen and it is conceded that neither of the troopers was on deck shortly after splinters began to fly from the front of the cutter.

The party had gotten some distance from home up the Greenfield road before the mishap came and the return trip is said to have been more interesting to observers than to the participants as they tramped back through the deep snow. ## BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1564-B

Smart Porch Dress in Two Fabrics

Beginners should test their sewing talents on this pattern, for it's the kind you can run up in a day. The design is obviously simple, yet the lines are so clever they give the impression of something out of the ordinary, and quite expensive.

Novelty, at last, is seen entering the field of porch dresses. Here we have two interesting fabrics combined—one is a white transparent sheer, the other, something heavier—preferably porcelaine. The upper section is made of sheer white—over a becoming note in wash frocks. The sleeves belong to the kimono family, and in the back extend into a deep, pointed yoke that is unusual. In the front the printed fabric is seamed to the white fabric in a zig-zag line which suggests an apron. The neck is undecorated, but has an interesting cut.

The skirt is plain, and tubular in effect with fullness concealed in flat pleats at the side seams.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1564-B is designed in sizes 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, and 36. Size 36 requires about 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material; 3/4 yard of 36 inch material for contrast in yoke and sleeves.

Monday: Matronly frock of silk print.

MENU FOR TODAY

Menu For Sunday, January 13, 1935

Breakfast: Grapefruit, oatmeal with cream, bacon and eggs, cinnamon buns, coffee.

Dinner: Fruit cup, celery, cranberry jelly, roast capon, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, broccoli, Hollandaise sauce, tomato salad, French dressing, suet pudding, lemon sauce, coffee.

Supper: Oyster stew, crackers, fruit salad, mayonnaise dressing, nut bread, sandwiches, tea.

Cinnamon Buns

Mix 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1 tablespoon sugar and rub in 4 tablespoons shortening. Stir in 1/4 cup milk or enough to make soft dough. Place on floured board and roll 1/4 inch thick. Brush with 2 tablespoons melted butter and sprinkle with a thick layer of brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 cup seedless raisins. Roll up like jelly roll, cut down in the slices 1/2 inch thick, and place close together in well greased pan. Bake for 30 minutes. Remove from pan as soon as done.

Suet Pudding, Lemon Sauce

Use 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup molasses, 1 cup sweet milk, 1 heaping teaspoon soda, 1 cup chopped beef suet, 1 cup seeded raisins, little salt, spices of all kinds, 3 cups flour. Steam 3 hours and serve with liquid sauce.

Oyster Stew

Put 1 quart milk into a double boiler and let it get boiling hot. Wash and drain 1 pint fresh oysters (Cape oysters are best, if you can get them), and put them on the stove in an enameled basin. Add a piece of butter the size of one of the oysters. Heat them thoroughly, being careful they do not burn. Stir with a spoon, then the butter may reach all parts. When they are boiling hot, put them into the hot milk. Salt and pepper to taste.

Menu For Monday, January 14, 1935

Breakfast: Stewed apricots, dry cereal, top milk, French toast, bacon, coffee.

Luncheon: Macaroni croquettes, tomato sauce, brown bread sandwiches, fruit salad, crackers, cheese, tea.

Dinner: Cream of spinach soup, broiled lamb chops, escaloped potatoes, carrots and peas, cabbage salad, mayonnaise dressing, Queen's pudding, lemon sauce, coffee.

Stewed Apricots

Soak dried apricots overnight in cold water. In the morning measure the same water and add 1/2 cup sugar in each cup of water. Stew until soft, remove the apricots, boil down the syrup a little and pour over the apricots.

Brown Bread Sandwiches

Cut brown bread in round, thin slices. Get a cream cheese, mix it with cream just to moisten a little so as to spread on brown bread, chop walnut meats fine and lay on the cheese. Another sandwich is made of round slices of white bread, cream cheese, and chopped olives are also good.

Cream of Spinach Soup

Pick, wash and boil enough spinach to make 1 pint when cooked, chopped and pounded into a smooth paste. Set 1 quart of milk, scald with 3 slices of onion and 3 branches of parsley. Melt 1/4 cup butter; in it cook 1/2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon paprika; add the puree and stir until boiling. When ready to serve strain the milk over the spinach, mix thoroughly and serve at once.

Can't you imagine what pleasure it will be to do such colorful flowers as this in bright wools or silks? You can use two shades of one color in each flower, with a touch of gold at the center. Pillows, scarfs, tea-cloths are but a few of the things you can decorate with these sprays. Every needlewoman will find the flowers fun to do; they are in blanket stitch design, and give them that realistic look. Dining room, living room or bedroom can be greatly enhanced with articles embroidered in this lovely design.

In pattern 3167 you will find a transfer pattern of two sprays 3 1/2 inches, two sprays 5 1/2 inches and four sprays 2 1/2 inches; a color chart; illustration of all stitches needed; suggestions and material requirements for a variety of designs.

"THE LAST ADVERTISEMENT WAS PRINTED YESTERDAY"

*What Would
the World
Be Like If
It Were TRUE?*

THE last advertisement was printed yesterday. You have cut it out and put it away to show your grandchildren. With it, a way of living as you knew it, has passed forever.

Tonight you will want to see a movie. You pull up to one—saw it last week. At another—but no, you don't like So-and-So's acting. Let's go home. It's too much gas and time to waste on a show. Next month half the theatres will close. Poor attendance.

Tomorrow you will want some groceries. You will go to the nearest grocery store and buy some. Rib roast, perhaps, and lima beans. You won't hear until tomorrow night at the bridge table that the store just next door was having a "special" on rib roast and lima beans. Pretty soon your husband will wonder why the food bills are so high. The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Next month is Aune Jane's birthday. Well, if you think I'm going to spend half a day tramping from store to store looking for a gift that I used to find by turning a page—can't afford gifts anyway. We're spending money like water and living like poor folks . . .

Old car's wearing out. Can't afford a new one . . . Chevies and V-8's are both $1600 . . . demand's fallen off . . . they've had to put up prices to meet plant expenses. Most of the others have closed down . . . don't know how the government will feed all the new unemployed.

Fellow in Milwaukee is inventing an air conditioner to sell for $50. No one will hear of it. You will never see it. What is air conditioning anyway? The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Advertising has brought us many things. Finer cars, better homes, silly fads and wonderful inventions that have made life easier—and longer. Advertising is no unmixed blessing. But it has helped give America a standard of living unmatched in any other place and time. That standard of living should persist as long as people have wants to fill and money to spend and eyes to read with.

It will persist only so long as the presses keep rolling.

Newark Mules, American Leaguers Coming to Play the Legionnaires

Kingston basketball fans will be delighted to know of an announcement made by the Kingston Legionnaire management this morning. The Newark Mules, American League basketball club, will be the attraction at the Auditorium next Wednesday night. Arrangements for the game were discussed last evening in Newark by manager and owner, J. C. Rump and P. J. Belcher, representing the Legionnaires, and the deal consummated this morning over the telephone. Buffalo was originally scheduled to play a State League game here next week but it has been set back to January 23, an open home date on the locals' schedule.

In booking the Mules, the Legionnaire management is bringing to the Auditorium the biggest and most colorful of the American League clubs. With the exception of Benny Borgmann, everyone of the members of the club is a six-footer or better. Last evening in Newark, the Mules showed a brand of basketball that was of the top-notch variety. They were held even in the first period but went on to win handily from Boston in the final two periods. The final count was Newark 31, Boston 17. Borgmann with twelve points, four from the field and eight out of nine from the foul line, led the Newark attack with Russell pulling up into second place with nine points. Frankie Shimek was the leading Boston scorer with one field and six fouls. The rather abbreviated court and the size of the opposition were handicaps the Trojans just could not overcome.

Kingston fandom has been clamoring for a look at an American League club and at the first opportunity the Legionnaire management

Kingston Drops DUSO Opener To Port Jervis by 27-18 Score

With the Port Jervis giants whooping it up, Kingston High lost her 1935 DUSO debut in basketball to a superior Port quintet by a score of 27-18, Friday night in the local high school gym.

It was height that won the ball game for the tri-staters. Kingston could not get the jump on the topoff, she could not shoot to any extent because of the extreme loutiness of the red jerseyed Horsemen, and she could not pass effectively because of this altitude feature of the Port basketballers. The tri-staters height also offset any handicap they may have had by playing on Kingston's so-called freak court.

The Red and Black got off to a fast start with Pepper red hot and had scored 12 points before the Horsemen collected a single marker. Near the end of the first quarter, however, Charley Bock slipped in a deuce and Jack Linden made good a free throw to end the quarter with Port in front by an impressive lead of 14-3. This early lead spelled victory for the DUSO favorites.

In the second period period the locals held the visitors to a single field and crept up on the Red and Black with two fields and two fouls to trail the Port aggregation by 16-9 at halftime.

In the third quarter with Kingston shooting at the poor basket at the rear end of the school, the Maroon gradually crept even closer to the tri-staters and twice in this quarter tallied by only five points, 19-14 and 21-16. The period ended with Port Jervis in the van, 22-16.

In the final quarter the Horsemen gradually pulled into a larger lead until at the final whistle they led 27-18. As the boxscore shows the Klansmen outshot the visitors from the baby strip but were hopelessly outscored from the more important field.

The three tallest of the Port giants led in the scoring, clearly showing how their height helped them on the offense. Pepper led the lot with six fields and two fouls for a total of 14 points. Six-foot-four Poletynski, and six-foot-two Dunn tallied seven and six points each. These three Port players scored all of the visitors' points. Jack Linden, lone center, topped Kingston by swishing the leather sphere through the nets with two fields and two fouls for a total of six points. Charlie Bock scored five points.

Sideliners.
The Bock brothers were slightly off color last night, Charley suffering from a heavy cold which slowed him down considerably, and Ed receiving a bang in the nose in the third quarter which temporarily put him out of the game in this period.

Ed Bock was acting captain last night.

All five of the Port starters were named on various All-DUSO football teams last month.

Incidentally Dunn, Pepper and Fedorka were named on every All-DUSO team picked.

George Pepper has been a point of evil to all three of Kingston's past major teams. In basketball he was the plucky of the team that defeated the locals in their last game. In football he was the slight end that worked particular havoc with Kingston's team. And he came along in basketball to score 14 points.

C. Debrosky has been dropped from Kingston's team. Reason—playing with other teams.

Kingston has two games on her schedule for next week, playing Poughkeepsie on Wednesday in the local gym and traveling to Monticello to play her second DUSO game on Friday.

In the preliminary game last night the fast stepping Olympics defeated the Jaxxers by one point 24-23. The Olympics were more effective than the score indicates, a galaxy of foul shots getting two of the Olympics star players out of the game. Conger beauty the Legionnaire management booked what is conceded to be one of the best of the circuit for the Auditorium.

Well Known Here

The lineup of the Newark club is composed of players all well known to local fandom. One of the greatest favorites of all time, Benny Borgmann, is playing a stellar game at forward for the Jersey club. In a conversation with P. J. Belcher last evening Benny said he was delighted to come here again and would welcome the opportunity to meet his friends again. Lefty Kintzing, "Char" Chasmodia and Honey Russell need no introduction to local fandom either. "Tiny" Hearn, the former Georgia Tech star, six feet six of brawn and muscle, does the jumping for the Mules and it is hard to conceive how any pivot man can get the jump on him. In fact, they don't and Tiny made Al Kellet, the Boston centerman, look bad last evening.

Reserved Seats Now

The reserved seat sale for the game will start tomorrow at the Legion as it is figured that the fans who have been looking for a contest between the Legionnaires and an American League club will flock to the auditorium in great numbers.

The Legionnaires left at noon today for their State League contest in Syracuse this evening. Manager Ronnie Phillips is expecting the biggest crowd of the year. The Kingston club will line up with Pip Koehler and Hank Kurtyka, forwards; Dig Bill Hamilton, center; Captain Carl Husta and Frankie Shimek, guards. Bobby Cullum will be the reserve man. Tommy Weems was taken down with the grip after Wednesday night's game and hasn't been out of bed since.

and Post led the winners with nine and eight points apiece. George Rifenbary was high for the losers with six.

Other DUSO results last night: Ellenville 29, Monticello 16. Newburgh 32, Middletown 24. Port Jervis.

Y. M. C. A. Basketball League for Boys

Boys belonging to the Y. M. C. A. who desire to play basketball will have a chance to get in the "Y" League. All games in this league will be played on the Y. M. C. A. court on Saturday afternoons beginning at 2 o'clock. Basketball is one of the most popular activities of the boys and the indications are that there will be at least eight teams in the league. Boys are signing up for the league every day and it is hoped that all those desiring to play in the league will enroll before Wednesday, January 16, in order that the schedule may be made out and the first games played on Saturday, January 19.

In order to give all teams a chance, the league will operate in two divisions—one for boys 12 to 14; the other for boys 15 and over. There will probably be about ten boys on each team in order to have a full team in case of absences and also to allow for substitutions.

A small entry fee is being charged each player to permit the awarding of trophies to the winners at the end of the season. Boys wishing further information regarding the league may secure same at the Boys' Department office in the Y. M. C. A.

San Francisco—Johnny Tena, 125, New York, and Midget Williams, 121, Philadelphia, drew, 104.

THE Sportlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

Tournament Nerve Strains

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 12.—What is the "nerve strain" difference between title golf and big money golf?

Why should there be any difference? Apparently there is. It is something you can prove from the winter tournaments that start in California and swing on to Florida, Massachusetts and Augusta. It is something you can prove from the big Los Angeles Open, now swinging under way for its tenth scattering of important cash.

Macdonald Smith, who has yet to win his first national title, has won the L. A. Open four times in nine starts against brilliant fields, and the same Macdonald Smith will be a leading contender once more.

In addition to this feat, he has won numerous other big money contests to prove he is a money player of high rank—but not a title ace.

The same angle covers a big part of the field. The biggest money winners of the last two or three years have been Paul Runyan, Craig Wood, Mac Smith, Horton Smith, Denny Shute, Harry Cooper, Ky Laffoor, Willie Macfarlane, Henry Pickard, Johnny Revolta.

Yet only Shute and Macfarlane from this group have ever won a British or U. S. Open. The true, smooth, lashing swing and the keen putting touch that carry them to big cash prizes against fast fields seem to vanish with a crown at stake.

Another Example.

"I'll give you a leading example of this Open strain," Tommy Armour said a while back.

"You recall the U. S. Open at Olympia Fields, where Bobby Jones and Johnny Farrell tied for first place at 296? Or was it 294? At any rate, we held the Western Open over the same course a short while later. What happened with this championship shadow taken away? The winner finished in front front around 283, about a dozen strokes better, and something like fifteen golfers broke below the score that had been good enough to tie for the Open championship over the same battlefield.

"In these big money tournaments," Armour continued, "if you flop in one, you have another shot within a week. But an Open comes only once a year—and the total cash rewards from publicity, etc., are far greater. So there is more of a temptation to start tightening up—to steer the ball—to stab the putt."

Hits 'Em Straight.

There have been few in golf who can hit the ball any straighter than Dutra who rarely has to ramble into the rough after leaving the tee. He is also a fine iron player and a consistently good putter.

It might be mentioned also that slender Horton Smith has returned to the top of a winning game with a putting stroke smoother than satin.

Horton's entire swing—from the drive to the short putt—is based largely on unhurried smoothness. He is the final word in effortless execution. It is worth a trip to any course to see him stroke a chip shot or stroke a long approach putt dead to the cup. His feet are held fairly close together, his legs are firm but relaxed, and his hands and wrists take charge of an even, easy stroking motion, which rarely fails.

Outlook For Amateur Athletics Most Promising This Year

By Jeremiah T. Mahoney.

President, Amateur Athletic Union of United States.

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—At the beginning of 1935 the outlook for the continued growth and influence of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States is most promising. This is properly so, because a study of the purposes of its creation and organization, of the things for which it stands, the people who conduct its affairs, of its plans and accomplishments, must inevitably lead to the conclusion that the A. A. U. has an important and permanent place in America to fill.

Reorganization.

During the new year it is proposed to create a comprehensive plan for reorganization, involving the creation of many new districts throughout the country. Reducing the districts, of larger size to small areas or to the state as a unit, will give better opportunities for more intensive athletic development and greater and numerous chances to organize athletic clubs in sections of America where there now is no athletic competition, particularly for the boy and girl out of school or college.

Then again, in many cities, such as New York, strange as it may appear, there are fewer opportunities for athletic exercise and track and field competition for the boys and girls than there were many years ago.

Care of Boys and Girls.

It is the scheme and the plan of the A. A. U. to develop interest in the neighborhoods, and to make a greater effort to take care of physical bringing-up of the boy and girl who is anxious for athletic competition. It is the hope that those in charge of the armories, private play fields, private athletic grounds and other places where there are facilities for exercise and competition, will throw them open for open athletic competitions in the interest of the athletic development of the youth of the land.

They shall be urged to do so. The A. A. U. is always glad to cooperate with her allied sister bodies, such as the Intercollegiate Associations, the Knights of Columbus, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. M. H. A., and similar organizations. In promotion of the underlying American principle that a sound mind is to be found in a sound body.

More Opportunities.

Throughout the year, therefore, or 1935, through sanctions granted by the A. A. U. by its different district associations and through its affiliated bodies, more opportunities for amateur athletic competition will be offered throughout the country than ever before.

The A. A. U. has no quarrel with the out-and-out professional. It respects the honest professional, and particularly holds in high esteem such organizations as the National Baseball League, the American Baseball League and other like associations that run sports on a high plane. The professional can take care of himself.

Standards Improving.

Due to intensive application and to improved methods of training, athletic standards are always improving, records are always being broken, and it is a probability that in 1935, because of intensive preparation and of greater competition in anticipation of the Olympic games of 1936, more records will be broken than ever before in any one year.

More important, however, than the winning of prizes or the breaking of records, the A. A. U. will continue to develop during 1935 through athletic competition, the highest qualities of sportsmanship and friendly relations at home and abroad.

For every reason it is therefore safe to say that the athletic outlook for 1935 is very bright.

Lou Ambers and Petey Hayes Win Fights in Madison Square Garden

HARRY DUBLINSKY.

Two of Kingston's favorites—Lou Ambers and Petey Hayes—who fought for the American Legion on their boxing cards here, took to the ring at Madison Square Garden, Friday night, and won.

Lou Ambers, the "Herkimer Hurricane" whose whirlwind duels with Buddy Emerson of St. Remy and the clowning Babe Lancaster of Middletown, will long be remembered by patrons of the Legion bouts, pounded out a 10-round decision over the highly rated Harry Dublinsky, Chicago welterweight.

Although under the floodlights of the famous ring where some of Astoria's most prominent leather pushers have campaigned, the flashy little lightweight fought as hard and as well as he did in Kingston against foes of lesser degree than the Windy City belter.

"Gits Paradise" as he was called in the amateurs, showed no signs of nervousness except at the end of the battle as he awaited the fognhorn voice of Joe Humphries, dean of announcers, to follow the choice of the officials.

Amber's tense feeling turned into an exhibition of joyful prancing about as Humphries walked toward him to grab his hand and raise it in victory. "The winnah" shouted Joe and Lou walked to the center of the ring with him, seemingly the happiest man in the world.

An Associated Press reporter saw the fight as follows: Lou Ambers still is No. 1 contender.

Outpointed Lew Feldman In Garden 10 Rounder Friday

PETET HAYES OF SAUGERTIES.

Heh's the pride of local Astoria who boosted his stocks by outpointing Lew Feldman at Madison Square Garden Friday night. This little piece of perpetual motion socked away for 10 rounds, getting the duke at the end, and justly so. Hayes came closest to scoring a knockout in the second frame, when he staggered Feldman with a terrific left hook. He hurt his left in the sixth round and slowed up a bit for the seventh and eighth. Petey finished strong in the ninth and tenth, clinching the decision. Among the spectators to see their favorite win were a number of fight fans from Kingston.

Bell Stands in Way Of Grant for Title

Miami, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP).—Atalanta's "Mighty Atom", Brian M. "Biter" Grant, today had the towering figure of Berkeley Bell, New York, between himself and victory in the finale of the third annual Miami Biltmore tennis tournament.

From yesterday's smashing upset of Sidney B. Wood, Jr., America's number two player, the bottom king of the hard courts gained renewed confidence and believed he could take the New Yorker's measure in the final test.

Sweeping the Davis Cup star off his feet in the semi-final match, Grant romped off with an 8-6, 6-1, 6-0 victory to even the Grant-Wood personal score of tournament play at two-all.

Bell found plenty of competition from 17-year-old Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., but triumphed 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 as the Floridian weakened.

Yankees Will Offer Ruth Another Contract

Colonel Ruppert Unwilling to Let Babe Go, Except as Pilot—Probably Will Be Asked to Sign for $25,000.

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Despite Babe Ruth's flat statement during the last world series that he will retire from baseball this year unless he gets a job as a major league manager, the New York Yankees will offer the veteran slugger a player contract for one more season. They expect him to sign it.

This is based upon the combined circumstance that no managerial job seems available for the Babe in either big league, and that Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the owner of the Yankees, is unwilling to let Ruth go to any other club except as a pilot. "I will not stand in Ruth's way if he has any chance whatever to fulfill his ambition to be a manager," Ruppert told The Associated Press today. "I will not ask one single penny for his services, from any club in either the American or National League if it shows me definitely it is willing to install Ruth as manager."

"The Yankees will be glad to keep Ruth, for at least another year, and will offer him a contract for 1935," added Ruppert. The Yankee owner has followed with special interest the reports of the Oriental tour during which Ruth started the natives with an old-time burst of home run hitting.

The Yankees paid Ruth $35,000 for participating, more or less, in 125 games last year. They probably will ask him to sign for $25,000 this year, which would still make him the highest salaried part-time player.

Twenty Grand was to have appeared at the post this afternoon in the San Francisco, an added money stake of $25,000, but was withdrawn because of the heavy track.

HEATING HINTS

.. by John Barclay

MANY home owners who have steam or hot water heating systems complain that they cannot get their radiators completely hot. In the case of steam radiators, this is often caused by air. Air, of course, must be entirely eliminated from the radiator before it can be filled with steam. Automatic air valves usually take care of this. If you have automatic valves and your radiators still are air-bound—try unscrewing the little plug at the top of the valve. When the cold air has all been blown out tighten up the plug again to its normal position.

If this operation does not stop the trouble, or if your steam radiators have a tendency to fill with water, I'd advise you to have an expert call and check up on the valves.
Hot water radiators may also become air-bound. This can be corrected by occasionally opening the air valve with a valve key and leaving it open until water starts to flow from it. It's a good plan to have a cup or pan ready to catch the water when you open the valve.

Reilly Says Fisch Wrote Ransom Notes

his own words to show that the old man was mistaken."
On Stand Again Monday
Osborn will return to the witness stand Monday to continue his direct testimony. Others called to corroborate his testimony are his son Albert, of New York; H. J. Walters, of Chicago; Dr. Joseph Schulhofer, of Birmingham, Ala.; C. C. Farrar, of the U. S. Treasury Department, Washington; Clark Sellers, of San Francisco; and Eldridge W. Stein, of New York City.
The injection of Violet Sharpe's name into the case again brought from prosecution authorities the announcement that they were in possession of a complete account of her activities on the night of the crime. Miss Sharpe was a maid at the Morrison Endicott estate, who committed suicide before being requested during the early stages of the kidnap investigation.

Know About Violet Sharpe
"There is nothing in this report that Violet Sharpe was seen in Yonkers the night of the kidnapping with two blankets under her arm. The state can account for everything she did that night, as it can for every known person connected with the case," said Prosecutor Hauck. "We have checked Miss Sharpe's activities closely and can produce witnesses to remove any suggestion of her connection with the kidnapping."
Indications were that the trial will take about four more weeks.
Members of the prosecution said that, despite the rapid progress in the first eight days, they would require two weeks more to complete the case. Reilly said the presentation of Hauptmann's defense would take about two weeks.

and he said it was admitted that Mr. Empt had to supply them with wood to keep warm. These statements brought objection from plaintiff's counsel, John A. Bonomi, and the court was kept busy ruling on objections throughout the trial.
Mr. Lounsbury in answer to the charge that Empt did not fix the pipes after the last freeze stated that at the time it was impossible to do so because of the weather conditions, but had told them that he would make repairs in a few days but the plaintiffs did not wait a few days but moved out.
Elsie Becker, daughter of plaintiff, was the only witness sworn for plaintiff. She and her brother were at the house at the time of the trouble while her mother was in New York. She claimed that she notified Mr. Empt of the freeze-up and he fixed the pipes once but later did nothing about the matter. Demands were made for payment of the gas and turkey bill but he "avoided them." When asked to construct an outside toilet she said he told her no man could dig into the frozen earth at the time and because the indoor toilets were frozen up it was necessary to abandon the property. It was not the freeze-up of the water which made her leave because it had been possible to carry water from a nearby well but the lack of toilet facilities was the concluding incident.
Miss Becker testified she notified Mr. Empt of their intent to vacate the day before they left and that he came the day they moved out to check a list of articles which were his property in the house but he refused to sign it.
The action was previously tried in justice's court and comes to the county court on appeal.

Lowest Prices in World

The shores of the Dead Sea are the lowest places in the world not covered by water, being about 1,300 feet below sea level. The air is substantially denser there than elsewhere. A scientific report that Dead Sea air averages about 6 per cent more oxygen than average air, together with similar increases of carbon dioxide and other gases.

Activities in Home Bureau Circles

As always the first two weeks of the New Year have proved to be active ones in Home Bureau circles throughout Ulster county. During this time Mrs. Emma Ludwig Swope has given the first instructions to some dozen Home Bureau units in the planning and making of charming household accessories. Work of this type is fascinating not only to the housewife whose home is in the country, but also to the village and city homemakers as well. Here they are taught how to utilize old home spun linens, osenaburg or even discarded burlap bags that have long since been relegated to an unused corner of a closet or attic. From these materials, after they have been cleaned or dyed, the homemakers of the county are designing scarfs, table runners, sofa pillows, wall hangings, lamp shades, table mats or luncheon sets and finishing them with embroidery or craft stitching. Thus a gay and colorful touch is being added to the homes at an extremely small expense. This week Mrs. Swope met with the Riverside Park Home Bureau unit at the Hurley town hall on Monday, with the Kingston unit at the home of Mrs. Stanley Winne on Tuesday, and on Wednesday with the Gardiner unit at the home of Mrs. Philip Donohue. On Thursday she demonstrated the work before the Modena Home Bureau unit at the Clintondale Grange Hall; yesterday she met with the Shandaken group at the home of Mrs. Henry Miller and today she is at the Kaatskill church hall where the Ashokan unit is meeting. The coming week will be an equally active one with a meeting on Monday for the Ashokan unit at the home of Mrs. Harold Davis of Olive Bridge, and on Tuesday for the Lake Katrine group at the home of Mrs. Donald Parish. On Wednesday there will be an all day session of the Lomontville unit at the home of Mrs. Demetrius France. There in the morning Miss Evelyn Nance will give the third lesson in foods for health and in the afternoon Mrs. Swope will demonstrate her homemade household accessories. On Thursday Mrs. Swope will again repeat her lesson at Stone Ridge and on Saturday at Accord. On Friday the High Falls unit may also meet.
Dr. Margaret Wylie, specialist in child psychology, also visited the county during the week and on Wednesday she met with the women units of the county who are working for the improvement of library facilities. Mrs. Willard Jenkins, county Home Bureau library chairman, conducted the meeting. Plans were discussed by which it is hoped better and more ample reading material, both books and magazines, may be made available to the rural homes. One solution suggested was greater cooperation between the Home Bureau units and the rural schools. Another suggestion was that magazine and book clubs might be made available through rural stores. And then of course traveling libraries may always be secured from the state.
On Wednesday evening the Kingston child study club met at the home of Mrs. Clifford Rose on Linderman Avenue. Following the paper, Mrs. Wylie had a discussion hour, suggesting further courses of study for this group. This volume takes up the serious conflicts and personality problems that may develop for the child as he grows older. This group, which meets every two weeks, has been studying together for six years.
Yesterday Dr. Wylie and Miss Nance met with another newly organized child study club at Wallkill at the home of Mrs. Harry E. Voss and helped plan further work for their group. Mrs. Edgar Clark, Jr., of Milton, county lay leader in child guidance, had already taught the first four lessons. Dr. Wylie also visited Milton yesterday where the child study group is beginning its fourth consecutive year of study and work.

Modena, Jan. 12.—The Modena Home Bureau met Thursday at the Clintondale Grange Hall, when the first lesson in "Household Accessories" was given by Mrs. Emma Swope of Ithaca. Mrs. Swope is in charge of this project instead of Miss Evelyn Nance, manager of the Ulster County Home Bureau, who was recently granted sabbatical leave by the Cornell University at Ithaca, for six months, beginning February 1. During this time of leave, Miss Nance will pursue graduate work in nutrition and will also take extension work in psychology.
